Bonds That Bind: The Braided Series

Introducing the Braiding technique, a distinctive weaving style from Flores.

While considered as a centuries-old skill and a part of Nusantara heritage, weaving is a dying art in the face of changing time.

With culture preservation at the core of our values, Du Anyam proudly revives weaving by infusing modern aesthetics, revitalizing the community, and nurturing a future generation of young weavers.

Together with women weavers and all community, Du Anyam has brought a fresh change in Flores' weaving patterns through a new braiding technique.

This braiding techniques seamlessly blend quality and beauty, with each weave meticulously intertwined to form rows of beautiful patterns. Thus, the Braided Series was born.

Beyond the unique style, the Braided Series also celebrates the legacy of Nusantara culture and the spirit of #WeavingGoodness.

Understanding Peatlands:

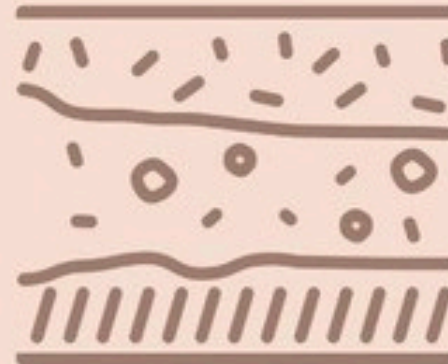

Indonesia boasts the largest peatlands ecosystem in Southeast Asia and the 4th largest globally.

Peatlands in Indonesia consistently face threats such as deforestation, burning, and degradation, including areas like Hulu Sungai Utara in South Kalimantan, Indonesia.

Peatlands play a crucial role in mitigating climate change, serving as the world's largest carbon trap and contributing to a diverse biodiversity of flora and fauna.

The story is based on the peatlands in Hulu Sungai Utara, South Kalimantan, Indonesia

It is a region in Indonesia where peatlands are plenty and potentially at risk of degradation

Peats are made when organic materials are formed in the water from tree leftovers, plants, and decaying fossils

Purun Collections:

A Tribute to Peatlands

From Flores to South Kalimantan, Du Anyam takes you on another weaving journey with the same philosophy: empowering women and celebrating culture.

What's unique in the Purun Collections is the message of peatlands preservation, one of Nusantara's rich habitats that is in danger of exploitation.

By using the endemic plant, purun stalks, let's bring awareness to peatlands existence as well as the community who relies on them

Let the spirit of #WeavingGoodness continue and spread across our country.
